Frank M. Corry, president of the Barre & Montpelier Traction company, has granted the request of some of the aldermen and school board and will give half fare tickets for the use of school children. The electric road is largely patronized by the children on the route, the ratio in the past having been three and one-half cents, but the present reduction makes their fare the same as of workmen.

A slight fire in the Y. M. C. A. building called out the fire department Sunday evening. The blaze was caused by the ignition of a barrel of oily rags and shavings and when discovered was eating a hole through the floor of the Wood Art gallery. A small hose used by those who discovered it, quenched the flames and the loss will not be over $50, consisting mostly of the smoking of the walls and the burning of the new hardwood floor. The opening of the gallery will be delayed but a few days.

Don't Break Down.

Severe strains on the vital organs, like strains on machinery, cause breakdowns. You can't overtax stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels or nerves without serious danger to yourself. If you are weak or run-down, or under strain of any kind, take Electric Bitters, the matchless tonic medicine. Mrs. J. E. Van de Sande of Kirkland, Ill., writes: "That I did not break down, while enduring a most severe strain for months, is due wholly to Electric Bitters." Use them and enjoy health and strength. WILLIAMSTOWN.

Miss Marion Lasell is teaching in Shady Hill.

It is said that the weight of the concrete on our new iron bridge is 53 tons.

A White River Junction baseball team recently played our team here and lost on a score of 28 to 3.

The union chorus will meet at the home of leader W. E. Randall next Monday evening, Sept. 12.

Our milliner, Mrs. Erskine Rowell, went to Boston last week to buy a stock of goods for the fall trade.

Mr. and Mrs. Winfred Cram returned last Monday from a little vacation here to Plainfield, N. J., where they are living.

For the first time in many years, farmers in the W. J. Covell neighborhood are not troubled with grasshoppers this season.

The members of the I. O. O. F. are requested to meet at their hall on Friday evening of this week, Sept. 9, for practice.

Any of our citizens wishing to send articles to the coming Northfield fair can leave them at the store of Mrs. A. N. Fellows.

Special communication of Summit lodge No. 104, F. and A. M., Thursday, September 8. A good attendance is desired. Work, third degree.

Royal Moulton, who has been sawing in Northfield in late months, with a portable mill, was so very unfortunate as to lose portions of three fingers on one hand, that were caught by the saw.

Our ex-townsmen, Return S. Davis and son, proprietors of the Chatham dairy, Charlotte, N. C., have as one of their customers the widow of the late General Stonewall Jackson. They write that she is a very excellent old lady.

Theodore Wilford tells us that his two sons, Irving and Clinton, who have been in Ohio in late years and in the granite business, have bought a granite business in Northfield and will likely come this way to live. He thinks the report unfounded that Waverley Murray will return to Vermont.

George Martin, son-in-law of the late Capt. William S. Beckett, will return this week to his home in Washington, D. C. His sister-in-law, Mrs. Mary Beckett Simons, will accompany him to his home and go later to Washington, Ia., to the home of her sister, Mrs. Emily B. Edgington.

Mrs. Parley Chandler and daughter of Barre City are yet at the home of Mrs. W. I. Correll on their summer outing. We hardly recall a pleasanter spot in our town for such an outing. But, to get it all, one should remain for the later autumn scenery thereabouts, which is just superb at times.

The Congregational ladies' aid society is yet desirous to get more old newspapers and books without covers, or magazines, that any having them will be willing to contribute. They want to send away a lot of them this month. They can be left with Rev. D. H. Strong or with Edwin Whitney, and they will be very gratefully received by this society.

Of course, every man has his fad. Our own is walking, which has just been boosted several pegs. The Brooklyn, N. Y., Daily Eagle recently said: "The story is often told of how John Morrissey cured himself of Bright's disease, after his case was pronounced hopeless by the most eminent specialists, and, by his own training, which consisted principally of walking."

Our former townsman, Osman C. Weeden, reached his 84th birthday last June 27. He has this season moved from near Kansas City, Mo., to Wellington, Kan., which is in Sumner county, one of the southern tier of counties in that state. When Mr. Weeden first went to Kansas he went to Wellington, where he lived twenty years and took up land for a farm, we think. Last winter was so severe that he lost 100 acres of wheat and last summer was so hot he will not get a quarter of an average crop of corn. The cat and the fruit crops are good. He writes of having recently visited his brother, William, who is 91 years old but quite smart and in good health. His only living sister, Mrs. Amanda Weeden Stark, lives in Wisconsin, and is in very poor health. His brother, Cogswell, is as well as usual. He sends kindest regards to all old friends here and wants them to know that "the old man is very much alive yet."

Among the very "pleasant memories" of a long life are those of years spent in the chery company that we found at one time in the store of the late Perley Chandler of Barre City. What a genial, rare man he was, only those could know who saw him, as some of us did, in those years. But not a little of the enjoyment of that time grew out of the presence of the jolly "hello girls" in charge of that central telephone office. Perhaps they were not quite as busy then as in these later days of increasing work. Those days have just been brought forcibly and pleasantly to mind, and on this wise. One of those oldtime hollists, who has been absent from Barre for years and has been occupied in various states of the union, writes us that wherever she goes she always has the Barre Times and reads each copy thoroughly. Thus she keeps in touch with old friends and with this scribe, amongst them, although all unbeknownst to him before. It is a pleasure to him to know now that he is doing anything to promote her pleasure and happiness by helping to keep her in touch with old friends. As she writes, "Old friends seem pretty near when one has been away from every one of them as long as I have been."

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

The Greatest of American Plays, "Paid in Full," Coming Soon.

Local theatrical interest will be stimulated by the coming of "Paid in Full," Eugene Walter's masterpiece of contemporary American drama, which will be offered at the opera house on Wednesday, Sept. 14, with a cast of exceptional talent. This famous play, exceeding in popularity any other of the present generation, has revolutionized modern drama. Its author is a pioneer in a style of playmaking which, incomparably combining worth and entertainment, has won such resounding applause that other dramatists are striving to follow his pace. Mr. Walter was the first playwright with sufficient daring, and as it has proved, foresight, to cut adrift from conventionalities and tradition and drive right at the heart of things. He had a story to tell, a most interesting story of actual persons in the real world of today. It was a narrative of love and ambition, of loyalty and envy, such as is running its course every hour all about us. With striking directness, the author went straight at his subject. He brought forward his men and women and had them live their lives right before us. He had their actions tell his story. So happily did this writer describe the realism of "Paid in Full" that his description has been widely quoted by other critics to express the compelling strength of the play. It stimulates interest. Everybody enjoys it. Already more than three millions of theoregoers have witnessed its performance. That was the record up to the close of last season, made by the unprecedented number of five companies that appeared in it, and that are playing it again this season. See "Paid in Full." Do not miss the chance. Take the assurance of three million persons and of every dramatic critic in this country, that it is the American play par excellence of the age.
